

Introduction:

Aari is a type of embroidery that utilizes a hooked needle to create intricate and delicate designs, often incorporating Zari Zardoni embroidery, which is a technique that uses metallic threads to add shimmer and shine to the finished piece.

What is Aari Work?

Aari work, one of the most intricate embroidery works was originated in Mughal era. It is a type of embroidery work that is done by stretching the fabric tightly over a hoop or wooden frame. A needle that resembles the crochet needle is used to do this fine work.

Table of Contents:

- The Ultimate Guide to Aari work for Beginners
- Introduction: What is Aari Work?
- Materials Needed for Aari Work
- Aari Work Needle Size for Beginners
- Aari Work Procedure
- The History Behind the Aari Work
- The Basics of Aari work
- The Application of Aari Work
- Tips for Maintaining Aari Work
- List of Certificate Courses offered by Akilam Academy Fashion Institute

Materials Needed for Aari Work

The things we need to do Aari work are

- Aari embroidery wooden hoop
- Aari needle
- Thread cutter
- Cotton, silk, zari thread
- Multi colour sequins, pearls, beads
- Bullion, French, embroidery wires

Aari Work Needle Size for Beginners

Aari work is a type of embroidery that is done using a needle and thread. It is a popular craft in many parts of the world, and is often used to decorate clothing, linens, and other fabrics.

When starting out with aari work, it is important to choose the right needle size. This will help you to create the desired results, and to avoid any frustration.

For beginners, it is recommended to use a needle that is size 5 or 6. This will allow you to create intricate designs, without the risk of breaking the needle.

Once you have chosen the right needle size, you can begin to explore the different techniques and stitches that can be used with aari work. With a little practice, you will be able to create beautiful, one-of-a-kind embroideries.

Aari Work Procedure

A step by step video tutorials to do Aari work for beginners

First, the fabric is stretched over a wooden frame which has four stands to keep the frame straight just like a table, so that the artist can do work with relax. Next, using thread and the aari needle, artisans embellish the cloth with cotton, silk and zari threads with sequins, beads, pearls, rhinestones etc. Usually, before embroidery the design is traced on the fabric.

The History behind the Aari Work

Aari work traces back to 12th century, the Mughal era where the fascinating floral motifs, traditional motifs were used. During that era, these embroidery works used to be done for royal and elite class people. So, it is one of the costliest embroidery types of India. Places in India like Rajasthan, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, and Delhi are known to be practiced Aari embroidery till now.

The Basics of Aari work

This embroidery uses semi precious stones, beads along with zari and silk threads to add richness and extra charm to the cloth. The needle which is used to create pattern, makes chain stitch in process. This embroidery is done on any kind of fabric like velvet, cotton, silk, chanderi, organza etc. Natural motifs like flowers, leaves, vines, trees, birds, mango motifs or paisley motifs, jaal motifs are done in this embroidery style. Due to its versatility, the embroidery is being practiced in contemporary fashion as well as traditional attires.

The Application of Aari Work

Aari work is considered as one of the most time consuming and tedious hand needle work. So, today, artisans work on a cloth together as a group, making the work less time consuming and less costly. In modern days, sarees, lehenga, kurti, sherwanis, sometimes shirts and party wear gowns are also seen to be done Aari work on them.

Tips for Maintaining Aari Work

As Aari work is costly, and very intrinsic delicate work, it should be maintained with proper care. Generally dry cleaning is recommended for such fabric, though; gentle hand wash can be done to retain the newness of the fabric.

Tailoring Course Name	Duration	Admission Fee	Monthly Fee	Syllabus
Diploma in Sewing and Designing	6 Months	530/-	700/-	Basic Tailoring Course
Diploma in Dress Designing	9 Months	900/-	1000/-	Advanced Dressmaking Course
Blouse Designing Course	4 Months	1000/-	1200/-	Blouse Designing Course
Kurti Designing Course	4 Months	1000/-	1200/-	Kurti Designing Course
Fashion designing course	1 year	1500/-	2000/-	Fashion designing course
Certificate in Aari designing	4 months	1000/-	1500/-	Aari designing course